1.2 for the whole week, a guide for every day, and what comes next

Hi,

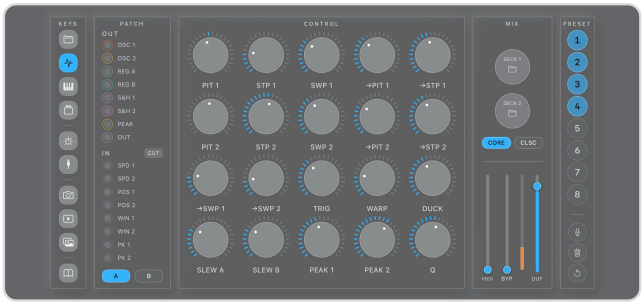

A short update from k.odk.

All seven days, on iPad

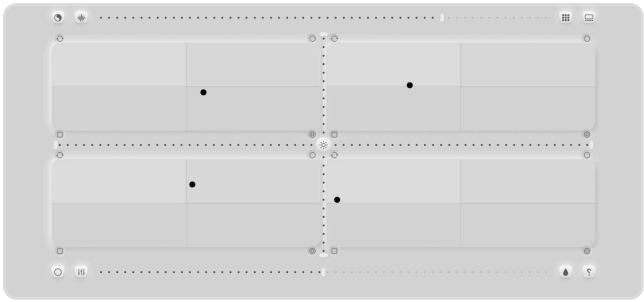

Mōnandæg 1.2.1 · guide
Tīwesdæg 1.2.0 · guide
Wōdnesdæg 1.2.1 · guide
Þunresdæg 1.2.0 · guide
Frīgedæg 1.2.0 · guide
Sæternesdæg 1.2.0 · guide
Sunnandæg 1.2.0 · guide

Mōnandæg 1.2.1 and Frīgedæg 1.2.0 are out, which means the whole weekday series has now moved to 1.2 — and every day runs on iPad as well as iPhone, in landscape, filling the screen, with every panel opening full size.

Tīwesdæg

Sunnandæg

Frīgedæg brings back the LCD look as a switch in SETUP. Mōnandæg lets you clear a take by holding its cell — thank you to the person who wrote in about this.

A guide for every app

I've written a user guide for every app: what each key and pad does, how the parts connect, and where the ideas came from. They are free PDFs — tap an icon above, or open them here:

- Mōnandæg
- Tīwesdæg
- Wōdnesdæg
- Þunresdæg
- Frīgedæg
- Sæternesdæg
- Sunnandæg

App Review is slow right now

If an update or a new app seems to be taking a while, it is. App Review has been backed up for weeks, for many developers, not only me — there has been a flood of new submissions this year. Some of my apps have been waiting far longer than usual. They will come out, just later than I'd like. Thank you for your patience.

Four new apps, waiting for review

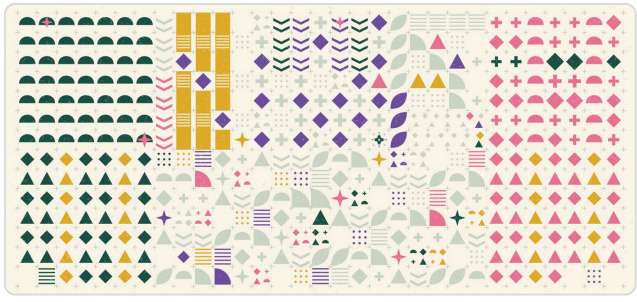

Humusmus
a modular sampler that links field recordings to each other.

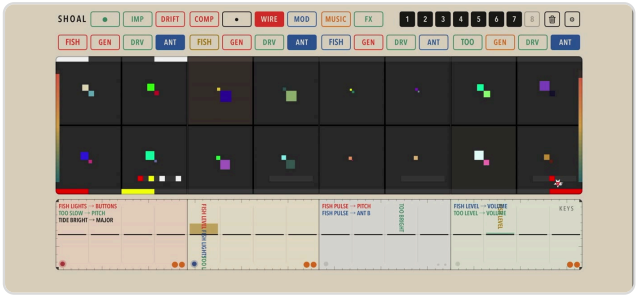

Speculae
a feedback instrument built from phasers and delay.

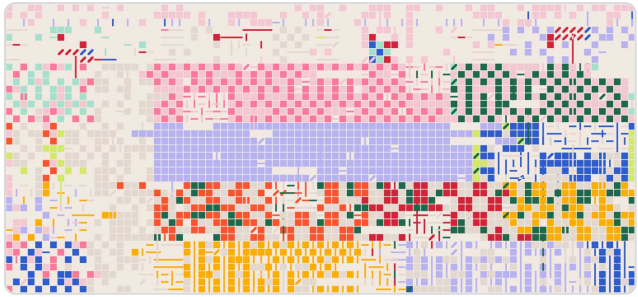

Shoal
four synths that play each other.

Espalier
a synth made only of chorus and delay.

Wucu, as AUv3

The week is also coming to your DAW. Wucu – AUv3 Plug-ins puts the weekday series inside Logic, GarageBand, AUM and other hosts, as instruments and effects, on iPhone, iPad and Mac. Each plug-in is an extract of its own app, made for adding a little improvised colour to a track.

It is waiting for review too, and once it is approved it will join the Wucu – Seven Days bundle. Its guide is already up: Wucu_AU_UserGuide.pdf

Android

Work towards Android has started: the account and the paperwork are under way, and I expect to begin building in about a month. Sunnandæg and Speculae will be the first.

No need to reply. If you have an idea for one of the apps, or something isn't working, write to kodk.dev@gmail.com. I make all of this alone, so please be gentle.
